Democratic Committee Holds Meeting.

A meeting of the democratic county central committee was held in the supervisors room on Sunday morning. The object of calling the members together was to talk over matters for the welfare of the party. It was a stormy meeting, however, and in its outcome did not tend to promote harmony. The true inwardness of the move was apparent when a motion was introduced to fill the vacancy in the office of school superintendent on the democratic ticket, it being suggested that a lady in Sutter Creek would be willing to offer herself on the altar of sacrifice for the good of the party, it being admitted that there was not the least hope of capturing the office. The motion created a breeze, and was finally withdrawn. Nothing of a practical nature was accomplished, and the committeemen departed just as far apart in their differences as they were before.

JACKSON CITY ITEMS

Local Happenings About Amador's County Seat

Mrs Patterson of Jackson and her grandson, Donald Bierce, left this city on Sunday last for Pacific Grove, where they will spend several weeks vacation.

Mrs C. P. Vicini and children have gone to Pacific Grove, where they will spend a few weeks vacation.
Mr and Mrs Chris Marella and children left Jackson for Santa Cruz Sunday last. They will be absent several weeks.

The county hospital has been re-roofed, and the building is being put into shape to receive a much needed coat of paint. The work will commence in the near future.

A new concrete porch and steps are being laid in front of Caminetti's law office, opposite the court house, this city.

Mrs W. A. Kennedy of South Jackson, left last week on a trip to Sonoma, Freestone, and Santa Rosa. She will be absent several weeks. Mrs Kennedy will be the guest of her daughter in Santa Rosa.

The judge's chamber in the court house is receiving much needed repairs. The plaster had fallen from the ceiling in great patches and the room was unsightly as well as unsafe.

On Tuesday evening last Rev. D. Beeks held the fourth quarterly conference at the Methodist church, and finished the business for the conference year. A large crowd was present at the business meeting.

Old Citizen Buried

Mrs Harriet E. Morrow, a native of Illinois, aged 62 years, 10 months, residing at Stasal Avenue passed away at her home on Monday last, and was laid to her final rest on Wednesday afternoon at 2 p. m., funeral services were conducted from her late residence. Impressive services were held at the Methodist church, after which the remains were interred in the Protestant cemetery, this city.

Campers Home

The party of pleasure seekers, composed of Mr and Mrs Hedgpeh and several others, who went on a tour of Silver lake and other mountain resorts, returned the latter part of last week. Terrible thunderstorm have swept over the high sierras during the last three weeks, sweeping off much of the snow that clung to the shaded slopes. The snow was never known to disappear so rapidly as this season, and as a consequence the water supply will likely run short

Creek Flooded

Middle fork of Jackson creek was flooded on Tuesday morning with water sent from the reservoir at New York Ranch. The creek's bed at this city has been nearly dry for several weeks, and the city's sewerage was sent into the creek and allowed to dissolve in the scorching sun, sending off odors that were almost intolerable. The washing of the creek brings to the city a freshness that is appreciated by all those who live near the stream.

A Costly System.

The public charge imposed by the direct primary law is something enormous. It will cost every county in the state more to conduct the primary election than the general election in November. In some counties the papers are publishing in full the ticket to be voted in every precinct. In Sacramento, for instance, the advertising of the official ballots requires over 30 pages of the Sacramento Union, which amounts to over 200 columns of tabular matter. At legal rates the cost of this would run up into several thousands dollars for each issue. With the printing of the index register, and other election supplies, the new law hits the several county treasuries pretty hard. To offset this expense, each candidate pays a small fee, $10 for county offices, toward defraying the cost. The aggregate collected in this way will not foot up one tenth of the actual expense.

Eye Badly Injured

Al. Podesta, employed at the Kennedy Chlorination plant, met with a painful accident while at his place of employment last Wednesday. Podesta was struck in the right eye by several particles of steel and the eye badly cut. Dr. Gall removed several pieces of the steel, and urged Podesta to consult an eye specialist in Stockton. The unfortunate man left Jackson this noon for Stockton to receive further treatment.

Taken to Hospital

Harry Jim, a young Indian from the reservation was brought to Jackson this morning and committed to the county hospital. Jim is in a serious condition, suffering from chronic dysentery. Dr. Endicott is attending the patient.

Capture Rattler

A large rattlesnake was captured near Cook's station on the Silver lake road, and is now on exhibition in the store window at Ruhser's drug store, Main street, Jackson. The reptile has six rattles and one button, and is nearly six feet long.

Appendix Operation

Frank Cotto, a resident of Ione, was brought to this city about 9:30 o'clock last night, by Dr. Adams of Ione, and taken to the county hospital, where he immediately underwent an operation for appendicitis. Dr. Endicott performed the operation assisted by Dr. Gall. The patient was in a critical condition last evening, but since the operation, seems to be getting along in a most satisfactory manner. This morning his temperature and pulse were satisfactory, and Dr. Endicott, his attending physician says the patient is doing as well as can be expected.

Sutter Creek Won

El Dorado and Sutter Creek clashed on the Sutter diamond last Sunday, and it resulted in a victory for Sutter Creek by the score of 9 to 2. Fine pitching by Boro and perfect support by his team mates, held El Dorado from reaching third base after the first inning. The batters for Sutter Creek were Boro and Smetheran, and for El Dorado, Butts and Isaacs. This makes seven straight victories for this team.

Forest Fire

A large forest fire was raging in Mt. Echo district last week and destroyed between 35 and 40 acres of valuable timber land on tracts belonging to Joe Hirach and about 20 acres of timber belonging to the Walker estate. Clarence Walker of Jackson and Joe King were in the vicinity of the blaze last Sunday hunting, and helped fight the flames at several points.

Johnson Repudiates His Party.

"It is impossible to conceive," said Ralston, that republican voters will take kindly to the candidacy of a man selected by a small coterie of disgruntled members of their party in secret caucus, violating the spirit and letter of the direct primary law which they claim for their own, and after having turned down eminent and worthy citizens who have faithfully served the public. Nor is it believable that Republicans voters, in view of the manner of Mr Johnson's selection, can take kindly to his repudiation of their party by his letter to the republican state central committee wherein he states in answer to a simple proper question as to whether he would support the nominee of the party whose nomination he is seeking, that he would determine that when he found out who the nominees were.

At every public crossroad in California Mr Johnson has stopped his automobile long enough to utter vile denunciation of president Taft. Loyal republicans of California are resenting this, because they do not agree with him.

Davis a Very Popular Candidate

Reports are reaching Jackson from every part of the county to the effect that the Amador blacksmith is striking while the iron is hot, and is obtaining excellent results from his labors, in the fight he is waging for the office of sheriff.

Davis, explained an old voter, is certainly deserving of the position, and more than qualifies for an office of that character. Why, he added, if it would take Davis 12 years to make a good sheriff, I'd get out and knock him. Then with an air of satisfaction he added, Davis I have known since his boyhood. He was born and reared in the state, and I have the first act of a questionable character to hear him accredited with. He is a sober, energetic, industrious and conscientious republican voter, and worthy of every republican ballot in Amador county.

Sewing Class

Six little misses, representing the leading class of Jackson's juvenile progressive spirits, have started a sewing class, under the instruction of Mrs Camille Miles. The industrious little ladies meet each afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock in the Jackson real estate office, and receive their instructions. The members of the class are as follows: Blanche Thomas, Helen Thomas, Marie Weller, Loree Green, Lenore Endicott, and Lucille Huberty.

Republicans Hold Caucus Meeting.

A caucus of republicans was held in Webb hall on Saturday to select a ticket in the various precincts of township one for delegates to the county convention to be held in Jackson August 27. All the city precincts were represented, but those outside of the city limits were unrepresented. The notice of the caucus meeting, and the place where it would be held was rather short, hence the lack of voters from outside the city. The caucus nominees for delegates in the respective districts were as follows:

Jackson No. 1—W. D. Dufrene, E. Dufrene, Dr. C. Schacht.

Jackson No. 2—R. Webb, Jos. Datson, H. E. Kay.

Jackson. No. 3—Dr. A. M. Gall, G. B. Ardittio, Wm. Daugherty.

North Jackson—Nick Radovich, Jos. Raggio.

South Jackson—W. H. Vela, A. L. Stewart.

West Jackson—Oscar Myers.

On Vacation

George Green, foreman of the Argonaut mill, left Jackson Wednesday morning for Stockton, where he will pay his mother a visit. From Stockton, Green will visit Santa Cruz and San Francisco. He expects to be absent several weeks.

Englebright a Worker

Republicans should not fail to vote for W. F. Englebright for nomination to congress from the first district. He has served the district well, and we can see nothing to be gained by making a change in the nominee. His opponent for the nomination is the present superior judge of Del Norte county, and would have to surrender his present office if nominated and elected.

Englebright is the friend of the mine. He has looked after their interest in congress in every possible way. As a matter of self-interest they should vote to keep him where he is. We want workers in congress. It is in committees where the most effective work is accomplished, not on the floor of congress. Englebright can hold up his end both as an energetic worker, and in debate.

Dump on Fire

On Monday afternoon Jackson was thrown into a pitch of excitement by the ringing of the fire bell. A small blaze was discovered in an ash pile in the alley running in from Court street, the blaze being directly back of the residence of William Nettle. A fire hose was connected to a plug on Church street, and the blaze quickly extinguished.

Arm Injured

James Pascoe received a severe cut on his right arm last Wednesday, while at the Jackson brewery, which required several stitches to close. The injury was in the fleshy part of the arm just below the elbow, and caused the victim much pain. Dr. Endicott attended to the patient, and says he does not expect any serious results from the injury.

Social Dance

A social dance will be held at the new Summit house on Sutter hill, tomorrow night, and will mark the opening night of the new place of business. Ghiglieri, the proprietor, has engaged Jackson's orchestra under the directorship of Archie S. Moore, and promises a good time to all who attend.

Booster's Dancing Club

On the 20th of August, the Booster's dancing club of Jackson will give another of their famous dances. At the last dance this crowd of enthusiasts cleared more than $40, which was donated to Jackson's public school. Julius A. Piccardo acts as floor director, and the floor managers are composed of the club's members. The committee of arrangements are Dave Brisco, Frank Garbarini and James L. Fontenrose.

Straw Vote

At the republican caucus held in Jackson last Saturday evening a straw vote was taken on the choice for governor, which resulted as follows: Curry 8, Anderson 4, Johnson 1. This is generally accepted as a fair expression of the sentiment among republicans of thistownship on the first choice of voters for governor. Curry is the prevailing choice, because he is considered the strongest man for the general election in November. There is no objection to Anderson, but he is deemed less strong than Curry as against Johnson and the Roosevelt league outfit, and would not run so well at the general election. The Curry nominating petition had over 100 names, after lopping off a large number so as to bring it within the maximum limit allowed by law. Anderson's petition, we understand, had between 30 and 40 names attached thereto.

Called to Grass Valley.

W. J. Nettle, foreman of the Argonaut mine, received a message from Grass Valley, Nevada county, last Tuesday, announcing the death of his sister, Mrs Kemp, in that city that morning, after a long illness, resulting in dropsy. She was 45 years of age. Mr and Mrs Nettle left Wednesday morning for Grass Valley, to be present at the last sad rites. Another sister was called by death in that city a year or so ago. He has one surviving sister, living in one of the Eastern states.

MINE NEWS ALONG LODGE

Interesting Accounts of Mines Located In Amador Co.

After two years of hard work most of which was done by A. L. Reale and the late J. S. Bell the owners, the tunnel in '49 Flat Gold Gravel Mine, is in about 600 feet, and two upraises have been made to gravel. The first was put up at about 500 feet from the mouth, and disclosed two feet of rim gravel which yielded ten cuts in gold to the pan. The second was put up 45 feet further in and showed the same character of gravel and the same value. After this the tunnel was again resumed and unless the main channel is encountered soon another upraise will be made. The property has been owned by Reale and Bell for the past 25 or 30 years and operated by them on several occasions during that time, but always along the creek and north of the north rim in the spill over. This part of the flat was very rich in early times, but it was left for Reale and Bell to solve the theory that the main ancient river channel was south of the old workings, running lengthwise of the ridge between Rancheria and Micky Free creeks. As soon as they had made up their minds that the main channel was further in the ridge and that none of the old works had been carried far enough south to encounter it they went to work and their development has amply proven their theory to be correct. At present there are but three men kept at work, although if money was more plentiful in the Reale treasury another shift would be put on.

Concert by Band

The concert given by the Jackson Military band last Sunday evening, under the direction of Archie S. Moore, was greatly appreciated by a large audience, which assembled in front of Love's hall. Moore has, by his active, earnest work in the short space of time spent in the town, gotten together as clever an orchestra as one could wish to hear, and has several engagements booked for dances and receptions. In a conversation with the new leader, we were informed that Jackson's musical talent is of exceptionally good caliber and with an instructor and booster such as Moore has thus far proven himself to be, Jackson can rest assured that she will, in the near future, have an orchestra and band that will command attention anywhere.

This Week the concert is as follows:

1. "Salute to the Stars and Stripes, March - Will Huff
2. "Mi Rosirene," Serenata Mexicana, Barnhouse
3. "Silver Bell," Indian Inter, Percy Weinrich
4. "Minerva," Waltz, H. C. Miller
5. "Ciribiribin," Valse Caprice, Arr. by Archie S. Moore
6. "Sweet Thoughts," Serenade, Machie Beyer
7. "Leistspiel," Ov., Keler Bela
8. "Frulingshied," March F. H. Losey

On Outing Trip

A family named Kauffman passed through Jackson on Monday afternoon bound for Angels Camp. The party is traveling in a large two horse wagon. Bedding and other household utensils necessary for comfortable camp life were stowed in the wagon, and the campers are looking forward to about two months of solid recreation and pleasure. From Angels Camp, a trip will be made to the Big Trees and from there a return trip will be made for home.

Died in Jackson

Mrs Lazar Kesin, wife of Lazar Kesin, died last Friday afternoon at their place of residence, corner of Water street and Bright Ave. She was laid to her rest on Sunday afternoon. Services were held in the Greek church, Jackson, and the body interred in the Greek cemetery.

Mrs Kesin was afflicted with peritonitis, and suffered great pain previous to her death.

The young husband was overcome with grief, and attempted to do himself bodily harm, but was prevented from doing so by Dr. Endicott, who was attending the patient.

WORSE STILL AND MORE OF IT.

The campaign on the democratic side for the nomination for sheriff, which has entered so decisively upon queer street as regards the antics of the present incumbent to secure a renomination from anywhere and everywhere, as explained in the Ledger last week, has developed during the past week into a screaming farce, with the same star actor in the leading role. As we anticipated in our article last week, the card campaign, with its tasselled pencil attachment for ornamental and useful purposes in the enlightenment of republicans in the art of marking their ballots for the benefit of a democratic aspirant for sheriff, has been abandoned, and the cards relegated to the dump pile. Their strut across the political checkerboard was brief and disastrous. But the intended beneficiare has essayed another venture of the same import, but in a slightly modified form. Two circulars have been prepared, one facing toward democratic voters, and the other toward the republicans, and the mail bags have been bloated with these missives for several days, every registered voter receiving one of these persuaders according to his party affiliation as disclosed by the great register. We presume every reader of the Ledger has been subjected to this literary bombardment. Be that as it may, we have no objection to the reproduction of this precious brace of circulars so as to give them the benefit of wider circulation, and also for the purpose of commenting thereon. Here they are in parallel columns:

[Sent to Democratic voters]
Jackson, Cal., August 6th, 1910.
Dear Sir: Owing to the fact that much of my time is occupied by attending to my official duties, I may not be able to see you before the primaries.
If you think I have done my duty as sheriff in the past, and will continue to do so in the future, I most respectfully urge you to attend the primary election on August 16th, 1910, and help to nominate me for the position.
If nominated and elected, I will serve the people faithfully and to the very best of my ability.
U. S. GREGORY.

[Sent to Republican voters.]
Jackson, Cal., August 6th, 1910.
Dear Sir: My official duties prevent me from interviewing all the voters personally, and if I have not or do not see you prior to the primaries, to be held on Tuesday, August 16th, 1910, it is because my work as sheriff and tax collector demand my attention and I cannot spare the time.
If you deem me capable and worthy, and believe that I will best conserve the interests of the people of Amador county as sheriff, I most respectfully request you to attend the primaries and endorse me for the position by writing my name in the blank space on your ballot for sheriff and tax collector. This is permissible under the law, and will not invalidate your ballot. If I am nominated and elected, I shall endeavor to do my duty faithfully.
U. S. GREGORY.

With the appeal to democrats we have no concern, other than to place it side by side with its brother effusion by way of contrast. But the appeal for the republican nomination is so unseemly and so utterly out of joint with political precedent that we cannot permit it to pass by unnoticed. We will not dwell on its faulty grammar ("if I have not or do not see you," etc., also a singular verb following a singular noun), as these may be due either to political excitement or typographical errors. Mark the difference in tone between the two documents. The democrats are "respectfully urged" to assist in getting him the nomination. There is no attempt to instruct the individual voter how to turn the trick by stamping the cross opposite the candidate's name. Democrats are presumed to possess sufficient intelligence to have mastered the rudiments of the election law to that extent at least. Now, note the language addressed to republicans: "I most respectfully request you" to indorse me for sheriff. How imperial the tone. The candidate must imagine that republicans have no other alternative but to obey this voice of command. But this is not all. The school of instruction is again started in full swing, and working overtime. The republican citizen is not conceded to know enough to do the voting act unaided, so he is kindly advised how to do it, "by writing my name in the blank space for sheriff." But even this is not enough. The republican dullard is further informed that "this is permissible under the law, and will not invalidate your ballot." We are very much mistaken if republicans can be trapped by such flim-flam methods.

The scheme is the limit of audacity. It is a plain violation of the spirit of the direct primary law. Never before in the history of Amador county has the spectacle been presented of one man making an active and personal canvass for nomination from two political parties of widely different views. It is positively disgusting in its implied sacrifice of political principle. It is on a par with a candidate seeking a nomination for office from two opposing parties under the old convention system, and pledging allegiance to two widely divergent platforms. An acrobat of that character should be relegated to the political has-beens without ceremony, regardless of self-congratulatory boquets about capability and worthiness.

To Fly Directly Upward—Surface-Hardening for Concrete—The Paradox of Roentgen Rays—An Improved Microphone—The Pole's Wabbling—An Aviator's Whirligig—The Flow of Marble—Java's Flying Frog—Ants on Man's Service.

The gyropter of G. L. O. Davidson, a novel kind of flying machine that has resulted from years of experiment in America, has on each side of the main body two sets of three wings, with a revolving horizontal lifter, or gyropter, between these sets. The machine that has been building near Taplow, Eng., measures 66 feet in length and 76 feet in extreme width, and will be driven by two 60-horse power steam engines, working with a pressure of 800 pounds per square inch. Each of the two gyropters, shaped like an inverted saucer, is a wheel 27 feet across made up of 60 full-length paddles from the center, with 60 half-length paddles toward the circumference. The bird-like wings taper toward the rear, and have adjustable tips. The machine, with a weight of 6 tons, is expected to have a lifting effect of 10 tons. Very small inclination of the gyropters will give a forward and upward or forward and downward motion, and a tail and front vertical rudder will aid in steering. The body is large enough for several persons.

The rapid wearing of dust from cement concrete floors suggested to Albert Moyer some experiments with protective coatings. As reported to the American Society of testing material, the paints and protectives on the market were found to form only a thin veneer, but several applications of dilute water-glass (sodium silicate) filled the pores near the surface, forming with the lime of the cement a kind of "marine glue," and hardened the concrete itself. This cheap application seems to be valuable for many uses. It strengthens concrete already set, and not only makes it more durable, but gives it resistance to sea water, acids, alkalies, and other chemicals.

Whether X-rays benefit or harm may depend on the dose. H. E. Schmidt finds that a mild application may stimulate a sluggish ulcer to heal, but the mild treatment would stimulate also the undesired growth of cancer, which needs a powerful dose to destroy the infected tissue.

The new microphone of C. Lorentz, of Berlin, makes use of a substance that is heat resisting and a good conductor of electricity, yet is very sensitive to variations of electrical resistance. Hitherto carbon has given better results than any other solid for microphone contacts, but this material has the disadvantage of being gradually reduced to ashes by the electric current lessening the microphone's efficiency. With high tension currents, the carbon has been used only with difficulty. When carbon is raised to incandescence in an atmosphere of highly heated silicon vapor, carbon silicide—or silundum—is formed, and this refractory substance has proven very serviceable in the new instrument. Speech is transmitted more efficiently than with other means. The silundum is not only suitable for ordinary microphones, but retains high efficiency in microphones operated with currents of extraordinary intensity. It is conveniently produced in the form of powder, granules, globules, rods, etc., and even as diaphragms for the microphone.

Since the autumn of 1899 the slight shifting of the north pole has been observed closely at six stations around the world near the 39th parallel of latitude, and Prof. Albrecht, of Postdam, has now completed a diaphragm of the pole's wanderings for ten years. Up to the end of 1909 the mean position had been circled around eight and one-half times in an irregular spiral course. The pole was very near its middle place in 1900, reached a maximum distance away in 1903, and nearly touched the center again in 1906 and 1907. Its oscillation reaching another maximum in 1909, it kept about 30 feet away from its central place during the most of the years.

The testing apparatus for flying machine propellers erected by the Vickers Company at Barrow-in-Furness, Eng., consists of a whirling arm, 166 feet long, mounted on ball-bearings in a cast-iron center column. Mounted at the longer end of the arm, the propeller, 110 feet from the mast, is driven, through gears and shafting, by a 100 horse-power electric motor. The propeller, revolving 500 to 1000 times per minute, can drive the arm 70 miles an hour.

Under the pressure of the overlying weight, rocks at a depth of a few miles become viscous, and are ready to flow like tar on removal of the pressure from any side. The flow may be shown even under artificial pressures, and in the experiments of Prof. F. D. Adams and E. G. Coker, marble has been deformed and molded with interesting and curious results. A cylinder of rock 4-5 inch in diameter and 1½ inches long was fitted closely into a heavy tube of steel, and pressure was applied through pistons of hardened chromium-aluminum-tungsten steel. A thinner central portion for the tube permitted lateral expansion, while a temperature up to 1000 deg could be applied by heating the tube in a stove. With pressures usually between 120,000 and 130,000 pounds per square inch, the rock was pressed out of shape—sometimes rapidly, sometimes slowly, the time taken by the change ranging from 10 minutes to 6 days. Under 296,725 pounds per square inch, a column of marble 12-5 inches long and 2-3 inch in diameter was shortened to 2-3 of an inch, expanding into a barrel-shaped mass, 11-6 inches in diameter at the center. The deformed marble developed a fine foliated structure with no trace of granulation. Curious results were that water had no apparent influence, and that specific gravity was not changed.

There are flying-frogs as well as flying-squirrels and flying-fishes, and all use a kind of aeroplane for making short flights. The flying-frog of Java has been described by Prof. Siedlueki, of the University of Cracow, under the name of Polypedates reinwardii. It is usually a beautiful green in color, with white belly, and orange-yellow soaring membranes between the fingers. It is like the chameleon, however, in its color changes. It feeds on insects, remains quiet in bushes by day, and when disturbed glides away to quite a distance.

The industry of the ant is applied to the use of man in the Orient, where it is made to clean sandalwood. The sweet and soft external covering of the wood is worth less, but the logs on the ground quickly attract an army of ants, which remove the waste layer. The valuable hard portion is then ready to send away.

THE PRIMARY CAMPAIGN

Curry Rises As Peer Over All the Other Candidates

The primary campaign is in its last stages. As in every previous political contest public sentiment is crystallizing in favor of a single candidate to the exclusion of the others. That indefinable tendency, which inevitably sets in toward one aspirant and makes him an overwhelming popular favorite, is at work and out of the maze of popular claims Charles F. Curry has risen as the overwhelming choice of his party for governor.

The politicians of California are reading with intense interest an interview which C. E. Clinch of Grass Valley, has given to explain his reason for his unqualified and enthusiastic support of Curry for governor. Clinch's reasons are those of a thorough business man, an observer of wide experience and a critical student of public affairs. Clinch is a prison director, vice chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, a merchant, fruitman and public spirited citizen of the state. He has been mayor of Grass Valley and is in intimate touch with the trend of public opinion.

His reasons for supporting Curry should be read by every republican in California. His interview in full is as follows:

"The impression being circulated that the members of the state central committee are urging the nomination of Anderson alone is wrong," said Clinch. "Several members of the committee are advocating other candidates. I, for one, am advocating with all my power the nomination of Curry. Curry is the best man for the office. I admire him and believe him of all men now seeking the nomination for governor on the republican ticket to be the best fitted for the position. He's better able to conduct the office than any other candidate.

"No man in California is more intimately acquainted with the state's affairs than Curry. I have reason to know this in my capacity of prison director. I am fully convinced that Curry will be the choice of the republicans at the August primary election. If he is judged by his record in office he is best qualified by experience, training and temperament. He is the one man on whom republicans can unite to-day without having cause afterward to regret their action. He's not a factional candidate, neither is he a machine candidate. He has supporting him many of the most high minded men in the state. Capitalists, merchants and workmen are behind him.

"Union labor is nearly a unit for Curry. That he is regarded as the workman's candidate is proved by the way union labor organizations are indorsing him. This support and popularity is the best evidence to me that Curry is the best equipped man in California for governor. We must have a strong man as well as an efficient one to win this election. This is conceded by all.

"Curry combines strength with efficiency in a manner not paralleled by any other candidate. For that reason I support him. Curry will carry Nevada county by a big majority. In my opinion he will come out of San Francisco with a big majority. He will carry many other sections of the state. He will increase in strength and popularity while Johnson will wane.

"In my opinion the fight is between Curry and Johnson. Republicans should not overlook that fact. Curry is the only man who can beat Johnson at the primaries. Curry is conservative and will be fair to all interests, according like treatment to working-man and corporations. He will make the best governor this state has ever had.

Suggests that State Fix Tax Rate Limit.

State Controller, A. B. Nye believes that there should be a state law fixing the maximum figures at which tax rates can be set and make all counties and cities keep within the limit, much the same as in Illinois and other states of the east and middle west.

The expression was made during the discussion by the members of the state board of equalization on the Central Pacific and Southern Pacific reports. He mentioned the increasing tax rates in many counties and districts, due largely to the new roads and school houses. These make the taxes so burdensome that with the addition of a few more expenditures the tax rates will be entirely too excessive.

THIS IS CERTAIN.

The Proof that Jackson Readers Cannot Deny

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's kidney pills cure permanently.
Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's kidney pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

Mrs James Cook, 25 Water street, Jackson, Cal., says: "For a long time I was afflicted with kidney complaint and my health became all run down. My back ached continually and I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells. The contents of my first box of Doan's kidney pills procured at the City Pharmacy worked wonders and after I had used four boxes of this remedy my trouble was a thing of the past. I am only too glad to endorse Doan's kidney pills." (Statement given in July 1907.)

GOOD WORK.

Mrs Cook was interviewed on April 5, 1910, and she added to the above. "I have nothing to retract from the statement I gave in praise of Doan's kidney pills in 1907. My cure has been permanent and thus my faith in this remedy has increased."

WORDS

Words are lighter than the cloud foam
Of the restless ocean spray;
Vainer than the trembling shadow
That the next hour steals away.
By the fall of summer rain drops
Is the air so deeply stirred;
And the rose leaf that we tread on
Will outlive a word.

Yet, on the dull silence breaking
With a lightning flash, a word,
Bearing endless desolation
On its blighting wings, I heard;
Earth can forge no keener weapon,
Dealing surer death and pain,
And the cruel echo answered
Through long years again.

I have known one word hang star-like
O'er a dreary waste of years,
And it only shone the brighter
Looked at through a mist of tears;
While a weary wanderer gathered
Hope and heart on life's dark way.
By its faithful promise shining
Clearer day by day.

I have known a spirit, calmer
Than the calmest lake, and clear
As the heavens that gazed upon it,
With no wave of hope or fear;
But a storm had swept across it,
And its deepest depths were stirred
(Never, never more to slumber,) Only by a word.

I have known a word more gentle
Than the breath of summer air;
In a listening heart it nestled,
And it lived forever there.
Not the beating of its prison
Stirred it ever, night or day.
Only with the heart's last throbbing
Could it fade away.

Words are mighty, words are living
Serpents with their venomous stings,
Or bright angels crowding round us,
With heaven's light upon their wings;
Every word has its own spirit,
True or false, that never dies;
Every word man's lips have uttered
Echoes in God's skies.

DONT HIDE YOUR MONEY

The man who hides his money because he assumes to be afraid of banks forgets that it was the bank that perhaps made the prosperity possible which gave him his money making opportunities.
Without the bank there would be no large commercial or business enterprises possible, salaries and wages would be low, and money making impossible. It is the bank in the exercise of its function in gathering together the funds of a community and putting them into active use that has brought prosperity.

To hide money is to hinder and hurt prosperity by restricting the

VOTE FOR CURRY.

If anything were wanting to reveal to republicans the true inwardness of Hiram Johnson's candidacy for governor it was supplied by the meeting in the interest of that candidate held in Jackson last Tuesday. No local republican who attended that gathering should have any misgivings as to the purposes of the Lincoln-Roosevelt organization, and the stump speakers sent forth to advocate the ticket nominated by a clique of soreheads under this high-sounding factional name. The speakers' remarks were greeted with little applause, and that applause came almost exclusively from the democratic portion of the audience. According to their harangues, all republican candidates outside of Johnson bunch were tied up to Herrin and the railroad, and it was the mission of this faction to redeem the state from this alleged enslavement. Taken in connection with the facts this argument refutes itself. It must be evident that if the Southern Pacific were in control of the republican party that corporation would call off all candidates for governor except one, thereby drawing the issue squarely between the Johnson and anti-Johnson forces, in which event the Johnsonites would be nowhere in the running. Instead of this there are four candidates in the field besides Johnson, all rustling after votes. The logic of the situation, from the Lincoln-Roosevelt argument, therefore is that Johnson is the favored candidate of the big corporation, the multiplicity of candidates being merely for effect. Of course, such is not the case, but this conclusion is far more reasonable than the contention of Johnson that all his rivals for the governorship nomination are wearing the railroad collar. It is significant that democrats favor Johnson, not because they want to see him governor, but because with such an opponent Bell, the democratic nominee, would stand a better show of being elected. Johnson is not in sympathy with the vital policies of the party; he is more of a democrat than republican. We have not the least objection to any of the other candidates, but support Curry believing that he is the strongest of the regulars, and more likely to avert the nomination of the insurgent candidate. Vote for Curry, and down the Johnson party wreckers and their democratic allies.

GUERRILLA POLITICS.

It is reported that after earnest efforts to find a candidate for sacrifice to accept the nomination on the democratic ticket for school superintendent against W. H. Greenhalgh, the present republican incumbent and candidate for reelection, a few would-be dictators of local democracy have persuaded a young man named Wilson to accept the position. Years ago he lived at Pine Grove, and for a short time was employed as a clerk at the National hotel in Jackson. Of late years, we understand, he has been out of the county, and is at present a resident of Calaveras county. We are told that for the past two terms he has taught school at Malones, in that county, and is under engagement to teach in that district for the ensuing term. Wallace Wilson is not on the great register. It is said he was registered in Calaveras county, but had his registration cancelled on the 10th of August—presumably with a view of transferring to this county, but he has not applied for registration in Amador county so far. The scheme is so wild as to be almost unbelievable. There is an ulterior motive behind it, namely, to force the republicans to scare up a candidate for slaughter against J. R. Huberty, present county clerk and democratic nominee for reelection. That republicans will shape their course to suit their wishes is out of the question. It is a weak spot in the primary law that a few names written on the primary ballots are sufficient to constitute a nomination in cases where there is no regular party candidate by petition. This state of affairs compels the candidate who has no opponent in the regular way to endeavor to protect himself against harassment in this manner by getting voters of the opposite party to write his name in the blank space on the ballot. This is perfectly legitimate, as a matter of self-defense against guerilla politics. It should be done by republicans in behalf of Huberty for county clerk, and by democrats in the case of Greenhalgh for school superintendent. This course involves no surrender of political principle. It is entirely different from the antics of U. S. Gregory, who, not satisfied with his prospect of capturing the nomination of his own party for sheriff, is actually fighting to get the republican nomination against the regular candidate of that party by petition, John S. Davis. That is self-stultification for the love of spoils to the limit.

Bitter Warfare

There is a bitter journalistic warfare in progress in Del Norte county prompted in a measure by the candidacy of Judge John L. Childs for the republican nomination for congress in this district. The Coast Times has recently been started in Crescent City, and it is fighting Childs in his own home town and county. It is claimed that the would-be congressman is prominent in a political ring that controls that county, and which pounces upon everyone who has the courage to say aught against ring rule. We know nothing concerning the merits of this local squabble in Del Norte. But it is well for the voters of the first congressional district to remember that we have a faithful, clean and able representative in W. F. Englebright, against whom not a word can be said. Englebright has been through Amador county in previous campaigns. His methods of campaigning are known, and they have always been straightforward and honorable. Judge Childs has been here also, partly on lodge business, but mainly to "do politics." There can be no question about his being a shrewd politician. But we must say that the above-board ways of Mr Englebright should appeal to republicans with much stronger force than those of Judge Childs. And in saying this much, the Ledger knows what it is talking about. Republicans will make no mistake by voting for Englebright. He has been tried, and found to be "all wool and full width."

Jackson Defeated

Jackson met her defeat at the hands of Valley Springs last Sunday afternoon in the best game thus far played on the local grounds. The home team had an even score up to the ninth inning, when a ball hit into center field took lucky bound, and allowed a three bag run. This run was scored by the next batter, and Jackson was counted out of the hardest contested game she had thus far played.

Costa, a Sutter Creek pitcher, was in the box for Jackson, and his work was admired by all. He is considered a very able pitcher, and won much credit in Sunday's game. Mason was strong with the bat, and has proven a valuable addition to the team. Huber, Steel and Love all played a creditable game. Skelly, Jackson's idol, covered his bag in his same old dependable style. Brown caught the game, and received much praise for the manner in which he held in the new pitcher. He will positively be indispensable by next season. He is quick and watches every play, and has a quick recovery, throwing an accurate ball to nearly any position on the team.

Cromer was on the first base, and is fast hugging Skelly for idol honors. He is indeed a remarkable player. Arditto of Stivits fame played in the field, but with a line-up of this caliber, the Valley Springs carried the god of luck with them, and won by a score of 4 to 5.

Next Sunday Jackson will play West Point, and another fine game is promised all who attend. Local fans are urging Ben Spagnoli, the team's manager, to arrange for another game with Valley Springs this season.

Sunday's game was without a wrangle of any sort. Umpire Kirby's decisions were all accepted as given, and not even a complaint was offered. Kirby is without a doubt, the best umpire that can be had in this section. He thoroughly understands the game, and his frank, affable disposition wins confidence even though his decisions look close, and the winning side is favored.

POLITICAL MEETING

Speakers Greeted by a Large Democratic Audience

On Tuesday evening last a political meeting was held in Love's hall Jackson, at which Franklin A. Griffin advanced the policies of Hiram Johnson, candidate for governor of California. Had a staunch republican ventured into the hall, without knowing that a republican rally had been booked for the night, his first impression would have been that he had gotten into a democratic mass meeting, as every democrat, from the state senator down, of importance, in this burg attended the meeting and applauded the speakers, and so few were the republican attendants that it could be easily seen that Hiram Johnson was no favorite of Jackson's well tried republicans. The hall was about half full, women and children formed the greater part of the gathering, and it was to this sex that one of the speakers appealed, asking them to intercede with their husbands, in bringing out a fair vote. C. H. McKinney of Sutter Creek was chosen chairman of the meeting, and after a formal introduction by attorney Caldwell of Jackson, the Sutter Creek tailor dramatically described the illustrious character of the champion of the Southern Pacific railroad and told of the dirty dealings of the great railroad company. For this he was accorded bass drum applause.

He introduced Franklin A. Griffin, who in behalf of his leader Johnson, was here to advance the policies of the republican insurgents. Griffin declared on opening his address, that the issues facing the coming campaign were unparalleled in the history of the state, after about fifteen minutes of lauding Johnson, his tactics were changed and he assailed the other candidates in the field. Curry and Anderson were the only ones he seemed to fear and in the order named he attempted to drag them from their well earned vantage. All through his speech of slurs and dirt thrown at Herrin and the Southern Pacific, the bass drum applauded him. He said Johnson was not a republican and declared "we are called insurgents, and are proud of our name."

Chairman McKinney at the conclusion of Griffin's talk introduced Alexander Gordon, a candidate for district Railroad Commissioner. The aged gentleman of 64 summers swallowed a mouthful of water after uttering each sentence, and described how he had herded cattle on Butte mountain 30 years ago. His humor was at least greatly admired by the democratic ladies, who fairly screamed at his stories of comparing republican delegates with Berkshire hogs and selling them at $60 per 500 pounds, etc.

Gordon, to be frank, is no doubt in earnest, but deserves little support from the republican ranks, for of the five candidates on the republican ticket, he declared he would not follow in any other candidate's footsteps and advocate the doctrines he was advocating here to-night. This, if nothing else should hurt the man who attempts to down candidates on the same ticket in the same campaign in which he is waging. The railroad speech jibed exactly with the address just finished by his bosom friend Griffin.

The meeting can be rated as a success at least from one point of view, and that was that several fresh jokes were brought to us and immensely enjoyed.

News of Interest from Near-by Counties

Charles Kahler of Jackson passed through Chili Gulch with his family on their way to the Big Trees.—Prospect.

Mrs. Bernice of Jackson is visiting her daughter, Mrs. I. Zumwalt of Chili Gulch.—Prospect.

J. J. Becker, the veteran railroad man and for several years past conductor on the Amador Branch Railroad between Galt and Lone, lies at the point of death at the railroad hospital at Sacramento. Mr. Becker has been laying off and on the sick list for the past few months—in fact, he has not been what you could call a well man for over two years. At his home in Lone in the early part of the week Mr. Becker was taken with a stroke of paralysis enveloping the left hemisphere of the body. He was immediately removed to Sacramento for proper treatment. The latest report from the hospital is to the effect that there is no hope for Mr. Becker's recovery, and that the patient is sinking rapidly.—Galt Gazette.

Albert Nelson felt the sparks of death at the Columbia marble quarry last Wednesday afternoon. He was in a wagon and engaged in bracing the huge slabs as they were delivered from the saws. A disarrangement of a temporary prop allowed six of the heavy pieces, weighing thirty seven hundred pounds, to tilt and before he could dodge he was pinned between them and another slab. The pressure was so intense that it was difficult to force a six by six inch timber into the space occupied by his body to gain an opening to shove the marble from him. Blood spurted from his mouth and nostrils. Although squeezed to a thinness no bones were broken. It made him awful sick. Within two hours he was walking about, but complained of internal pains.—Sonora Banner.

While the job office force was at work on the Index to the Great Register this week, we had the curiosity to look at one bunch of the "copy." There were 229 names on this "copy," registered by precincts, and of the lot 168 were registered as republicans, 52 as democrats, 1 socialist and 8 declined to state party affiliation. If that proportion is to hold good all through the county, it ought to be a walk over for that ticket, that is provided of course that all these voters have acted in good faith, and no one has committed perjury.—Prospect.

Last week explorers found what is believed to be the skeletons of two persons who belonged to a race that inhabited El Dorado county even before the advent of the Indians, who were here when the first white men came. In the vicinity of Cool there are vast limestone deposits, and in this formation is found natural caves of great extent and beauty. The owners of this ground recently gave permission to Dr. Hawyer and others of Auburn to explore these caverns in search of curios, and Henry Rose of Auburn and Eugene Flint of Cool undertook the work of exploration. Penetrating to a considerable distance in one of the caves, they passed from one chamber to another, and in one of these they found evidences of human habitation at some previous time. The remnants of two skeletons were found, with low browed skulls and massive jaws, entirely different from those of the present white race or the Indians who inhabited California for ages before the discovery of gold. Ornaments and rude stone implements were also among the articles found. In one part of the cave, a lake was found, the extent and depth of which has not yet been determined. Exploration will be continued, and interesting developments are anticipated. It is believed that this section will become a popular resort for tourists with the completion of the Sacramento and Sierra railroad.—Republican.

Last Sunday fire was discovered on the ranch of Morris Jones in Jackson Valley and it came near being a serious one, too, but the alarm quickly spread and men came from every direction to fight it. It was extinguished after burning over about 200 acres. Had there been a good breeze there is no telling where it would have stopped, as the grass is very rank. As it is the loss of feed is quite serious.—Echo.

The work of rejuvenating the high school building will be commenced next week. The material is partly here and the balance will be on hand when wanted. The improvements will include some needed repairs to the building and the laying of ship lineum on the upper floor to deaden sound, with the painting of the whole outside and some finishing touches inside.—Echo.

The Lone Copper Mine is running steadily. They expect to put on another shift soon, so as to keep the mill running day and night.—Echo.

The fire started near the Central house Sunday was caused by parties hunting doves. It was got under control before much damage was done.—Echo.

Mrs. Dr. Adams and daughters, Ursula and Inga departed for Berkeley Thursday morning, which place will be their home for some time to come. Mrs. Adams has made the move for the purpose of giving her daughters the benefit of a home while attending the State University. This does not mean that they have given up their home in Lone. Mrs. Adams will be here a portion of the time, while the doctor will hold the fort. He has no present nor future intention of giving up his practice here, all stories to the contrary notwithstanding. All his business interests are centered here, and he has no desire to leave these interests to the care of others.—Echo.

An Indian named Logan Brown died at the Fitzsimmons ranch last Sunday morning. He had been ailing for a long time with that dread disease, consumption.—Echo.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations. It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

A Wild Race

By WILLIAM EASTMAN

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

While traveling in Colorado I dined informally with a successful mine owner. His wife was a demure little woman, who said nothing during the meal, her sole ambition apparently being to see that his children had what they wished and what was best for them to eat. After dinner, while smoking with my host, I asked him if his wife, being such a gentle, feminine little woman, did not find life in a new country distasteful.

He smiled. "I could tell you a story about that 'gentle, feminine little woman,'" he said, "that would make your hair curl."

"Do so," I replied. "Lisa," he began—"that's my wife—was born out here. Her father came out to mine. When she was sixteen years old she was out one day with her father and brother, who were prospecting. They had with them a horse of Tennessee racing stock and fleet as the wind.

"While Lisa was flower gathering and her father and brother feeling about in the ground with their picks suddenly she heard a noise. She looked up and saw her father and brother looking at each other, both very pale. Then her father ran to Jack, calling to her at the same time to come to him, loosed the bridle rein, put her on him and said:

"Ride for your life. A cloudburst is coming. Stick to Jack. He can outrun anything."

"And, turning the horse's head down the gorge, he gave him a slap on his haunch, and away he went, with little Lisa astraddle of his back.

"It was not far to a canyon communicating with the gorge they were in, and if Lisa could have turned her horse into it she would have been safe. Her father and brother, who rode the other two horses, did this and had the satisfaction to see the torrent boiling past them, they being on higher ground and out of its path. But in giving her the high bred race they had endangered her instead of giving her the best chance. Jack, hearing the torrent coming after him, became unmanageable through terror and shot right past the mouth of the canyon.

"Fortunately Lisa had been used to horses. She knew her danger too. Jack was liable every moment to fall and was killing himself in the struggle. How he ever passed over the path he did I can't imagine. I've been over it often since, and every time I wonder more. If he fell the torrent would be on him and his rider before he could get up and she mount him again, even if that were possible. If he became exhausted that meant death too.

"Once, she says, she looked back to see what had become of her father and brother. She saw great trees hurled by a mad torrent against the rocky sides of the canyon. One sight of such a scene was enough for her. She tried to soothe her horse by speaking to him and patting him on the neck. Several times he had stumbled, but recovered himself, and she knew this was her greatest danger.

"Well, here I come in. I was a tenderfoot ordered by my doctor to come out here to breathe the mountain air. At the time Lisa was coming down the canyon I was being driven in a light wagon in the opposite direction by a man I had hired for the purpose. We heard a roaring; but, I being a greenhorn in the country and the driver being stupid, neither of us knew what it meant. The road was narrow. Beside it was the waterway and on either hand the canyon's walls.

"Suddenly I saw up the gorge a horse coming lickety split and knew by fluttering skirts that a woman was on him. He couldn't pass us at that gait owing to the fact that we took up all but about three feet of the road. Lisa says he seemed to recognize the fact, for he slowed up of his own accord.

"Just before Lisa reached us my driver seemed to catch the meaning of it all and, jumping from the wagon, began to scramble up the side of the canyon. I, not understanding what was the matter, sat still till the girl came up. I had never seen her before, but I was not likely to forget the picture. Her horse was white with foam; her hair had broken loose and was flying in the wind.

"A cloudburst!" she cried. "I didn't know what a cloudburst was, but at that moment caught sight of its forward edge and didn't need any one to tell me. I had come west in a sleeping berth all the way from Ohio and was weak as a kitten. My cowardly driver was taking care of himself, but paying no attention to me. The girl took in the situation. She was trying to squeeze her horse between the stone wall of the gulch and the wagon, but had presence of mind to call to me to get on behind her. One glance at that coming death gave me all the strength I needed, and I was on Jack in a jiffy. Then she let him go again.

"We were a mile from her home, the horse was getting exhausted, and now he had a double load. She knew well enough that she was halving her chances at taking me on, but we managed to keep ahead of the flood, and in a few minutes Jack mounted the rising ground that led to his stable.

"And that," my host concluded, "is the 'gentle, feminine woman' you're talking about."

"She's that and a heroine besides," I supplemented.

Envious.

"Just think of it!" said the student of immigration. "Many men who come to this country cannot write their own names."

"Yes," answered Mr. Pinchpenny, "and when I get down my cheek book on the first of the month I am inclined to envy them."—Washington Star.

Fixing the Break.

"They were both broken up by their separation."

"But I understand they've effected a reconciliation and are now re-paired."—St. Louis Star.

The Kings of Denmark.

The dust of the Danish kings is kept in a great cathedral at Roskilde, an old town twenty miles from Copenhagen. Every year the entire royal family always pay a visit to Roskilde in obedience to an ancient custom. On one of the pillars are marks showing the height of Peter the Great, Nicholas the Iron Czar, Alexander III. of Russia, the king of England and many other kings. The cathedral was built in the eleventh century. It has two mighty towers, which can be seen at a long distance. The oldest grave is that of King Harold I., who died in 987.

THE ACME ERADICATOR

By CORNELIUS BARRY

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"George," said Mr. Skinner, "you're an excellent young man, but you have no business shrewdness about you. When my girl marries I don't wish her to marry a man who is liable to slip up on providing. I wish her to have a husband who can make money. When I was your age my father gave me a thousand and told me to use it and my wits together. Out of that thousand I've made $20,000. No; I can't give you Grace. You're not sharp enough."

"But I haven't a father to give me $1,000," said George. "I haven't a father at all."

"Well, George," said the other, "I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll lend you a dollar. Come and see me at the end of a year, and if I find you've done well with it I'll lend you a thousand. The dollar is only to try you without making any serious loss. The thousand will be to set you up. Then if after another year you have made your thousand grow I'll throw in Grace. I don't mean that you must make something out of nothing, but you must come pretty near it."

George took the dollar and his departure without making any further remark.

"Grace," said Mr. Skinner one day some months after this, "a man came into the office the other day and sold me a bottle of some stuff for getting grease out of clothes. I've spilled some gravy on my coat. You'll find the extractor in my bedroom closet. I wish you'd bring it and take out the gravy."

Grace brought a box containing a white paste and a small bottle. After reading the directions for application on the label she scraped some of the paste on to the grease spot on her father's coat, poured some of the liquid from the bottle on to the paste and rubbed it with a cloth. The mixture formed a frothy substance, which, on further application of the liquid, was easily rubbed away. But the grease spot remained.

It occurred to Mr. Skinner that he had been done by the man who had sold him the grease eradicator. Nothing in the world irritated the old gentleman so much as to find a man sharper than himself. "Acme Grease Eradicator!" he exclaimed contemptuously, reading from the label. "I'll bet it is a swindle, and if it is I'll go for the company that sells it. I'll have Ben Humiston analyze it." Humiston was a young chemist and Mr. Skinner's nephew.

A few days later the analysis came in. It was this: "Soap and water." "Soap and water, eh? I reckon I can get a few thousand for keeping still anyway," remarked the old gentleman, and sending for his lawyer, he commissioned him to see the Acme Grease Eradicator people and find out what they were willing to give for keeping their secret. The attorney did so and reported that the company were now using a different eradicator, that they would pay nothing for secrecy and were too rich for Mr. Skinner to punish. They were turning out tons of their eradicators daily, and it was sold in every city, town and hamlet in the country.

A few weeks after this his daughter reminded him that the year he had accorded her lover to make the dollar he had given him sprout was about to expire. Mr. Skinner remarked contemptuously that the dollar had doubtless long ago gone for cigarettes. That evening George called and tendered the loaned dollar.

"Well, George," remarked the lender, "I confess I never expected to see it again."

"You said, Mr. Skinner, that if I made it grow you'd lend me a thousand and if I made that grow you'd give me Grace."

"So I did, boy. Well, what have you done with it?"

"Made a million."

"A million grains of sand?"

"A million dollars."

Without regarding Mr. Skinner's puzzled look George told his story. With the dollar he had received he bought two cakes of white soap for 5 cents each. The soap he cut into candles and ran a wick through each candle. Five cents more he invested in a bottle and filled it with pure water. Fifty cents more went for a table. Then he went to a circus and began to take grease spots off the clothes of the people outside the show. The spots he made himself by spilling his "candle grease" on the clothes, and on the application of water resulting soapsuds washed it out. Such a demand was made for the grease eradicator that dozens of boxes could have been sold if they had been on hand to sell. But George took a partner and the next night did a good business.

"What did you call it?" asked Mr. Skinner eagerly.

"The Acme Grease Eradicator." "Sold!" exclaimed the old man. "We are now selling a real eradicator on the demand worked up with the soap and water, and a million wouldn't buy the plant and the business."

It took Mr. Skinner a long while to awake from the stupor occasioned by his wonder, a long while to realize that George was the Acme Grease Eradicator company and still longer to realize that he was not dreaming. Then he said:

"George, you're a razor. You may have Grace."

The Pip and the Slip.

Too much mince pie had done the trick.

Little Maimie got a pain in her sash and had to go to bed.

The family physician and his top hat called and prescribed a pill. Maimie's mother said very well, but the family physician did not know Maimie, and she was quite sure Maimie would not take the pill. The family physician said he would make it a sweet pill, but Maimie's mother replied that so long as it was a pill it would be no use.

Then the family physician was struck with a brilliant idea. The pill should be craftily concealed in the center of a preserved pear and sent up to little Maimie to eat.

An hour later Maimie's mother went to see how her sweetest dear was going on. She appeared to be going on excellently.

"And did my pet eat all her pear?" inquired the fond mother.

"Yes, mumsie," replied the little darling, "all but the nasty seed."

There's many a slip 'twixt the pear and the pip.—London Answers.

Bituminous Coal.

The first bituminous coal mined in the United States, states the United States geological survey, was taken from what is usually termed the Richmond basin, a small area in the southeastern portion of Virginia, near the city of Richmond. This basin is situated on the eastern margin of the Piedmont plateau, thirteen miles above tidewater, on the James river. It lies in Goochland, Henrico, Powhatan and Chesterfield counties. The coal beds are much distorted, and the coal is of rather low grade when compared with that from other districts with which it has to come into competition. The occurrence of coal was known in the Richmond basin as early as 1700, and in 1789 shipments were made to some of the northern states. At present what little coal is produced in this field is for local consumption only.—Scientific American.

Movement of Icebergs.

In the investigation of the currents round the coast of Newfoundland it has been observed that there is at times a wide difference in the direction of the drift of icebergs and that of the flat or pan ice, which, having no great depth, is governed in its motions by the surface currents and the winds, whereas the icebergs, the larger parts of which are submerged to a great depth, follow only the movement of the ocean water as a whole and are uninfluenced by the winds. In consequence a huge berg may often be seen majestically maintaining its slow advance in opposition to the wind and across the general motion of the fields of flat ice surrounding it. The sealers often take advantage of this fact by mooring their vessels to an iceberg in order to prevent a drift to leeward.—Philadelphia Record.

Hunting the Kangaroo.

When brought to bay the kangaroo jumps like a flash for the hunter's chest and tries to crush it in with his fore feet. To prevent this each man wears across his breast a two or three inch thick matting. Armed with a spear, with a club attachment at the other end, they ride upon swift horses into a herd. With the agility and equipoise of circus riders they stand erect upon their horses and use their spears and clubs.

The kangaroo is able to jump clear over a horse. As the game is bagged it is skinned, and the skin is stretched on the ground and pegged down to prevent shrinkage. The flesh furnishes meat for the camp. Each man places his private mark upon his booty, and when they have 100 apiece they return back to civilization.

A Child Wife

By EMILY B. PARKHURST

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

The daughters of all good families in India must be married. It would be a public disgrace as well as a crime against the Hindoo religion for an Indian family of good rank to keep a daughter unmarried. Since it is difficult for their parents to find husbands for them the daughters are made away with. Those of high birth, called rajpoots, are put to death by men especially employed to do so. The British government having passed laws against these murders, the parents of those girls who have not found husbands have resorted to a method of marrying them in name, though not in fact. There are a number of Brahmins, old and decrepit, called Kulian Brahmins, who go about with the object of hiring themselves out to go through the ceremony of the "seven steps" with young girls upon being paid for doing so. After marriage they leave the country and never see their young wives again.

In Allahabad there lived one of these rajpoot men who had a daughter over twelve years old.

In the next house lived another family, in which there was one son, aged eighteen. The two children had been brought up together, and their childish friendship had grown into love. The parents of the youth were very proud of him and destined him to marry some girl who should be not only of high caste, but whose parents would be able to bestow on her great wealth.

One evening after it was dark he was walking in the compound (garden) about his father's house when he heard a low call from the compound of the next house. Going to the fence, he descried the crouching figure of his sweetheart, evidently suffering from some great misfortune.

"What is it, dear girl?" he said, springing over the fence and taking her in his arms.

"I am to die."

"To die!"

"Yes. Today a man—a horrible looking man—came to the house and talked with my father. I had been told to go on an errand, doubtless that I should be away at the time and not hear what passed between my father and this man. But I had not yet gone. I have been suspecting that, not being married, I would soon be made away with in some fashion, though father and mother have tried to keep the awful knowledge from me. So when I saw this frightful creature come to the house I concealed myself behind a bamboo screen and heard every word."

She gave way to her feeling and was unable to proceed. Her lover kissed her again and again, begging her to tell him all.

"My father bargained with the man for a hundred rupees to strangle me."

"When—where?"

"Tomorrow night father is to take me out for a walk by the river, when this man is to come upon us suddenly as if to rob, seize me and after he has killed me throw my body into the river."

The agony of the youth was equal to that of the girl. Both knew that their separation and her death were not to be prevented. It would be of no avail for her to refuse to go to walk with her father or to try in any way to escape her fate. The young man dare not disobey the commands of his parents. Should he fly with the girl the sleuths of the Indian police would follow and surely capture them. They spent what time that remained for them together, not laying plans to prevent the calamity, but weeping in each other's arms. At last the girl heard her mother calling her, and after one clinging embrace she ran into the house.

The next afternoon an old man leaning heavily on his staff stopped at the house and asked for a bit of bread and a little wine. The girl, who was to die that night—knowing the secret, though her parents were not aware that she knew it—went to the cupboard by her father's order and brought the refreshment.

"Is your daughter married?" asked the visitor.

"No," replied her father. "We have no husband for her."

"But you cannot keep a girl like that longer. Our religion forbids."

"No," whispered the father; "we shall not keep her longer."

The look that accompanied the words was not lost on the old man.

"How much will you give me to marry her?"

"You are a Kulian?"

"I am."

"I will gladly give you your price if it be not too much."

"What say you to a hundred rupees?"

"I will give it gladly."

The girl was listening, and hope sprang up in her heart. She loitered near till she saw her father count out the money to the old man and then swooned.

When she came to herself she was told that she was to be married to the visitor. Death, which had been so near, seemed worse to her than living in separation from her lover, and she gladly went with her father and the old man that the ceremony should be performed. After it was ended the husband went away, and it was understood that he was never to return.

From that day the young lover was missed. Long after his love received from him the means to take her to America. He and the old husband were one.

Why He Searched.

The old man had evidently dropped something in the muddy road, and he began searching for it. In three minutes about thirty strangers had joined in the search, and every additional minute brought additional searchers, till at last one, bolder than the rest, plucked up heart and spoke:

"What are you looking for?" he inquired.

"My friend," mumbled the old man, "I have dropped a piece of taffy candy."

"But, great Scott," cried another of the crowd angrily, "why do you go looking for it when it will be covered with dirt?"

"Because, my inquisitive friend," replied the old man, "my false teeth are sticking to that taffy."

Fate of the Flowers the Master Placed in Water.

A certain good natured doctor whose doctored rang late one Saturday night, supposing that the summons was from some one who needed his services, rose from bed, put on his dressing gown and went to the door.

A workman stood there, holding a huge paper package, from which buds and leaves were protruding.

"Is Miss Caroline Ward in?" he asked.

"She has retired," returned the doctor. Miss Caroline Ward was his cook.

"I'm sorry, sir, to call so late. Something went wrong with the tramcar I was in. I'll leave this for her, sir, if you will kindly give it to her in the morning."

"Certainly," said the doctor. He took the flowers into the kitchen, placed a dishpan in the sink, drew a few inches of water in it, carefully pressed the base of the package into the water and went back to bed, thinking how pleased the cook would be.

The next morning he found the cook holding a dripping bundle. She was angry.

"If I 'ad the pussons 'ere wot did this," said she, "I'd empty the kettle on 'em! I'd let 'em see if they could put the 'at what my young man bought me in a dishpan, I would!"

The doctor left the kitchen somewhat hurriedly.—London Scraps.
